“ Mr.and Mrs. Angelo played a big part in my life. Living next-door to them,I would visit often to play with their Airdale,Nemesis.He would gently take my arm and lead me to his leash hanging by the beautiful fireplace. I loved being at their house. When Anna"s mother moved in,I would stay with her at times while Anna was working.

I remember being instructed on the vitamins and supplements(no Prescriptions) to give her with meals. Anna was always telling me to take Vitamin C.

After I was living away from home, we continued to make time for each other and with George before he passed.We would visit the antique places around town and go to lunch.

Anna told me of George's Irish heritage, so of course we had her over for corned beef and cabbage. She made Irish soda bread! Oh,and her greek cookies were the cat's meow! She tried to teach me how to make them and roll them . I never got the hang of it.

I have so many memories of the noels and their pets. George encouraged me to keep up my artwork. I have a pastel painting of a horse's head he gave me in the bedroom.

Anna and I were able to talk on so many subjects including the afterlife. I know she is reunited with her family and friends. Love you Anna. Thank you for your friendship and love.

“ Anna and George will hold a spot in my heart forever. I enjoyed visiting my birthplace when our family came back from NJ to visit. Anna always offered her wonderful cooking, George gave me a lesson in football strategy and Nemesis would not knock me over. Mom and Anna must have subconsciously planned to go to their husbands at the same time. Our love and gratitude to Anna and George's family for sharing their lives with lifelong friends. Sincerely, Jim/Nancy Gianacakes & family

“ When Father Patrick and I lived in Louisville, we spent every New Years Eve with Anna and George, enjoying a wonderful dinner, and welcoming the New Year. She was always gracious and giving and fun to be with, and very level headed.

She loved her dog and family, was a marvelous cook, and always interesting company.

The only Christmas gift she would allow us to give her was a contribution to the Nature Conservancy.

May God grant her rest and the joy of his presence!
